Estimates and planning ranges contained within this report are based on historical and current data available from a wide variety of sources, are specific only to the student noted on the front cover of this report, and are based on information that has been provided to College Planning Relief. These estimates should be used as a guide to help a student or user understand likely ranges for student aid and to assist in the final selection of an appropriate college. While all care has been taken to produce estimates that are accurate based on the information provided to us by the student or user, federal and state agencies, non-profit entities, and postsecondary institutions are subject to change without notice, potentially rendering these estimates inaccurate. Information contained within this document is subject to change based on a variety of factors, including federal and state legislation changes, federal and state regulatory changes from administrative agencies (e.g. U.S. Department of Education and state higher education authorities), changes in Title IV eligibility at the institution that you are interested in attending, and/or changes in the financial aid awarding techniques used by the institution that you are interested in attending. It is the responsibility of the user to check with his/her state's and/or educational institution's student aid administrators to determine their exact student aid policies, procedures, requirements, and deadlines, including individual FAFSA filing deadlines, and for complying with those policies.

College Planning Relief periodically reviews the contents of, or the information provided through, the Services and makes reasonable, "good-faith" efforts to consistently provide users with accurate, up-to-date information; however, College Planning Relief does not assume liability for loss or damage(s) as a result of user reliance on the Services.
